

La Table des Amis de Provence

Truffle Hunt

February 10, 2023

10 AM – 1 PM

Les Pastras

Cadenet

Did you ever wonder about the mysteries of truffle hunting? Have you tasted the local truffles from Provence? Would you like to spend a few hours on a beautiful farm in the Luberon where truffles are hunted (with dogs) and organic wine and olive oil are made? Now is your chance!

On February 10 at 10 AM, La Table des Amis de Provence will embark on a truffle adventure at Les Pastras, the organic family farm owned and run by Johann and Lisa Pepin, a Franco-American couple who moved to Provence from Chicago in 2003 to take over the Pepin family vineyard, leaving behind their jobs in finance and public relations for fresh air, starry skies and life in Provence. They live on Johann's family farm and are the new generation, taking the art of truffle growing to the next level. They ship their truffles internationally to individuals and restaurants. And you can even adopt a truffle tree on their property and get regular fringe benefits.

From Johann:

"Our truffle hunts last at least 3 hours. First you will learn, in English and French, how truffles grow and how they can be farmed and hunted. We then go out on the farm with three dogs in search of the precious tuber. After we have found some, hopefully, you will discover the rest of our property with wild herbs, vineyards, olive groves and beehives. We then return to our outdoor kitchen to eat three different hors d'oeuvres made with truffles, followed by truffle ice cream with truffle honey, and finally a tasting of our organic extra-virgin olive oil, truffle oil and truffle salt, accompanied by all the Champagne you care to drink. During the tasting you will learn how to buy truffles and truffle products, clean them, store them and prepare them."

The cost for Table des Amis members is 72 euros per adult and 77 euros for non-members. Children are also invited at 52 euros for kids (10 to 17) and 37 euros for children (2 to 9).
